ABOUT ACCESS:

The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) is a civil rights bill which bans discrimination against individuals with disabilities. Under the ADA, transit agencies operating a fixed route public bus system must provide a comparable paratransit system for individuals with disabilities who cannot use the fixed route bus system. This means that an individual whose disability prevents them from independently using the regular public bus system should be able to travel on the same days, during the same hours, and in the same general area as the bus travels, for a fare which is not to exceed twice the non-discounted regular bus fare of an adult passenger. Omnitrans Access Service is designed to meet these requirements.

Omnitrans' Access paratransit service is a pre-reservation, shared-ride, public transportation service. The mode of Access is designed to be a curb-to-curb service however; passengers requiring a higher level of assistance from their origin to their destination due to an impairment related condition will need to contact Omnitrans to identify a reasonable accommodation that can be provided to assist their transportation. The Access service area is defined as up to $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile on either side of an existing regular Omnitrans bus route.

In order to use the Omnitrans Access ADA paratransit service, you must be certified as eligible. Eligibility is determined on a case-by-case basis. ADA regulations strictly limit eligibility to only those who have specific limitations which prevent them from using accessible public transportation bus systems. The entire Omnitrans public bus fleet is fully accessible.

Three key factors to eligibility are:

1. The individual's ability to independently travel to/from the nearest bus stop.
2. The individual's ability to independently board/exit the bus.
3. The individual's cognitive ability to independently navigate the regular bus system.

Issues which by themselves are not factors used to determine eligibility include:

1. Age
2. Distance to bus stop
3. Lack of bus service to an area
4. Overcrowded buses
5. Inability to speak English
6. Weather conditions

Your ADA application may be approved for full eligibility (Unconditional), on a limited basis for specific conditions (Conditional), or for a temporary period (Temporary). If you are determined to have the ability of using the regular bus system for all trips, without the assistance of another person, you will not be eligible for Access Service.

If you are determined to be Not Eligible for ADA paratransit service, or are dissatisfied with your eligibility type, you may appeal the decision by submitting a written request to Omnitrans within 60 days after the receipt of your denial/approval letter. You may request a Level One appeal or a Level Two appeal. A Level One appeal is handled by an Appeal Specialist who reviews the documentation and any new information that you provide and feel relevant to your determination. The Appeal Specialist is independent of the Eligibility Department.

A Level Two appeal is a format where you appear before an Appeal Review Panel to present information that you feel should be taken into consideration for your eligibility. The panel will review the eligibility documentation and hear information that you present to the panel. The decision of the Level Two Panel is the FINAL determination. Specific information regarding an appeal is included with the denial letter.

The appeal process should take no longer than 30 days. You may re-submit an application if your condition worsens.

It is important that all parts of the application are completed including the healthcare professional form. You will not be able to schedule your appointment if these required forms are not complete. If you arrive for your in-person appointment with incomplete forms your appointment may be cancelled.
